UNM DEPARTMENT OF SPEECH & HEARING SCIENCES

FINANCIAL MATTERS

While we know that graduate education is one of the best investments you will ever make, the question of how to pay for your education is an immediate concern for everyone.

UNM is regularly on Money magazine's list of excellent college values because UNM's resident tuition rates are low and because non-resident students can easily qualify for resident rates after living in New Mexico for one year.

The Department offers some assistantships and modest scholarships, but we are not able to provide financial aid to all students. Some rely on loans, savings and part-time jobs during their graduate education.

If you wish to be considered for any type of financial aid administered through this department, you must fill out and return the form below. Follow the instructions on the form.

Full-time graduate students usually enroll for 9 – 12 credits per semester. In the summer, all students pay resident fees. Other fees include $90 per semester for clinic materials and malpractice insurance, and a per semester fee for the UNM Graduate Professional Student Association (GPSA). For current tuition and GPSA information, please visit the UNM Bursar's Office website at <http://bursar.unm.edu/tuition-and-fees.html>.

Additional information about scholarships, loans and other sources of support can be obtained from the UNM Scholarship Office, Student Support & Services Center, 1155 University Blvd SE, (505) 277-8900, 1-800-CALLUNM or <http://scholarship.unm.edu> or from the UNM Student Financial Aid Office, Mesa Vista Hall, Room 1030, (505) 277-8900; 1-800-CALLUNM or <http://finaid.unm.edu>.

If you have any questions after reading this material, please visit the department's website at <http://shs.unm.edu> or call the department at (505) 277-4453.

A SELECTION OF FUNDING SOURCES

Graduate Assistantships

Each year the University allocates a sum of money to the department for graduate assistantship (GA) appointments. SHS normally distributes these as quarter-time positions in the spring and fall semesters, requiring 10 hours of work per week. The stipend level is established by the College of Arts & Sciences. In addition to a monthly stipend, assistants receive 6 hours of paid tuition (and pay resident rates for remaining hours) and health insurance coverage. Students are appointed for a single semester, but appointments may be renewed. GAs are selected by the faculty or staff member who will supervise them and their duties are determined by that supervisor. At present, we fund approximately eight quarter-time positions each semester.

Research and Training Grants

Faculty in the department may receive research or training grants from a variety of funding sources. The faculty member who has received the grant is responsible for recruiting and hiring students to participate in the grant. Other grants are administered outside the department but are open to participation by our students. The duties, stipends and benefits vary depending on the type and scope of the grant.

The Richard Hood Scholarship

Originally directed to the support of students in audiology, this scholarship is now used to support an outstanding SHS graduate student in speech-language pathology. The amount of the scholarship depends on donor funding.

The M.C. Crossman Scholarship

This scholarship provides funds for small/modest scholarships based on merit and need.

The Bruce Porch Graduate Scholarship

This scholarship is usually directed to a graduate student with a special interest in neurological disorders or reading problems. The recipient is selected in consultation with Dr. Porch. The amount of the scholarship depends on donor funding.

The Fred Cheist Sr. Scholarship

This scholarship is awarded based on academic ability. The amount of the scholarship depends on donor funding.

Graduate Fellowships

These awards of $7,200 per year are intended to support students from groups traditionally underrepresented in graduate education. Applications are made through the Office of Graduate Studies, <http://grad.unm.edu>.

New Mexico Graduate Scholars Award (formerly 3% Scholarship)

Awarded based on need, these scholarships cover nine hours of tuition and the GPSA fee for the fall and spring semesters for New Mexico residents. The Office of Graduate Studies selects the recipients of the NM Graduate Scholars Award and priority is given to new graduate students. In order to be considered, a current FAFSA must be on file with UNM Financial Aid.

Allied Health Loan-for-Service

This program pays tuition or provides assistance in paying student loans for students in healthcare professions who agree to work in various sites in New Mexico following graduation. Contact the NM Higher Education Department, 1068 Cerrillos Road, Santa Fe, NM 87505-1650, <http://www.hed.state.nm.us/> for an application and information.

Center for Academic Progress Support (CAPS)

The center, on the third floor of Zimmerman Library, employs tutors in most subject areas. You must have received an A or B in the course for which you will tutor. Contact CAPS at (505) 277-7208 or caps.unm.edu.

Work Study

This federally-subsidized program is awarded based on need, and work study students are hired by many campus units, including the SHS department. A work-study award is determined based on the student's FAFSA application to UNM Financial Aid.
